FROM THE DESK OF MICHAEL DUGGAN TREASURER

The 2011 Department convention is history and the New York American Legion Press Association ended another membership year, holding its own in members.

Since the Press Association operates on membership dues, the five-year loss of about 75 individual members and 50 post memberships equates to a decline in revenue of about $2250. The membership drop and low interest rates on our certificates of deposit had a direct effect on our budget, which I had to adjust downward.

The news is not all bad. In the past couple of years I have had 50 or so renewals at our convention. This year, with the help of 2010-2011 President Pat Rourke, we garnered 60 renewals. That’s a 20% increase. The luncheon for the past couple of years had no more than 30 attendees. This year we have 36; that’s also a 20% increase.

Your Critical Role as Communicator

Members of the Press Association are the communicators for the American Legion at the local level. We are the people that have to get out in our legion communities and support the newsletter editors and webmasters. A word of encouragement at a county meeting goes a long way. Tell them what a good job they are doing and have them send the newsletter and websites in to state and national for judging.

Speaking of communicators, the New York Press Association newsletter has a new editor and a new look. I’m sure Bob Stronach (EditorRob@yahoo.com) would like to hear from you. Pat Rourke (prourke@twcny.rr.com) has moved to the National American Legion Press Association as its new editor. I wish both men good luck.

Welcome President Anne

Congratulations to our new president, Anne Harrington, and her staff. Anne starts with a revised constitution & bylaws and a promising increase in membership. Please give her your support.

By the way, kudos to Pat Rourke for having certificates of appreciation made at his own expense -- for each of the elected and appointed members of his staff. In the photo Pat gives one to Judge Advocate Charles Mills (right).

FROM THE DESK OF PATRICK ROURK
2010-11 PRESIDENT

Dear members:

Thank you, one and all. For what, you might ask? For renewing your membership. As our treasurer is fond of saying, "we are the communicators." The American Legion needs communicators so I thank you for fulfilling that role.

As your president, I had a good and rewarding year. If you have ever held office, be it president, commander or whatever, you know not all is the finest wines and most expensive flowers. I would like to publicly thank Robert Morrill, PDC, for his super help in the constitution-and-bylaws arena. We are up to date and now cover all required parts of the law.

Many others in the Association have been of great help and I also thank them. Finally, I'd like to thank Michael Duggan for his esteemed assistance. Just one example: He arranged for our annual luncheon guaranteeing 30 attendees. At the time he had 18 confirmed members or guests. When the smoke cleared, we had 36 attend the luncheon meeting. Mike managed to pay for only the guarantee. What a boon to the Association!

My congratulations to Anne Harrington for being elected president for 2011-2012. Please give her and all the other officers, appointed or elected, the great support you have provided me.

Finally, I welcome Robert Stronach as the new editor! Bob stepped up when I needed to ease out due to other Press Association requirements. Having seen some of the galley proofs for the next issue, I know that this was a great decision for the Association.

PRAISE, TOP AWARDS KICK OFF CONVENTION

By BOB STRONACH

Outgoing NY Department Commander V. James Troiola opened the 93rd Annual Department Convention with a nod to Legionnaires around the state.

"I'm proud of our Legion Posts and their accomplishments in their communities," he said, noting he has seen local posts in action in his travels around the state. "I can't count how many times I've been inspired by what you do." Describing his term as exciting, with an enthusiastic focus on membership, Troiola said he would "cherish the memories and friendships."

NATIONAL Vice Commander Eugene Pytka, who brought greetings from National Commander Jimmie Foster, encouraged Legionnaires attending the convention to think of themselves as teachers or mentors vital to the Legion's growth. "Imagine the amount of knowledge we have in this room," he said. "You are the teachers!"

LEGIONNAIRE Awards Chair James R. Middleton Jr. announced the NY Legionnaire of the Year -- Edward R. Lupian Jr. of Rensselaer. Lupian said he was humbled by the honor and immediately shared the award with people who had an impact on him. He started with "everyone from my post (Gerald O'Neil Post 1683 in Rensselaer), from Rensselaer County, and from my (3rd) district." He singled out a deceased World War II veteran, Mike Buker, who took him under his wing. He thanked the faculty of Legion College, who opened his eyes and ears to all things Legion. He pointed to Department Treasurer Al Goodwin Jr. as a mentor, and finally he thanked Department Public Relations Chair Kenneth Governor "for taking me under his wing," especially since, as an old Marine, he was prone to prodding and yelling to get things done. "Ken would pull me aside and say, 'You can't yell and scream at volunteers.'"

SCOUTING Chairman Carl L. Griffith announced the Eagle Scout of the Year -- Jason Maybach of the Erie County community of Bowmansville. A member of Troop 85, Maybach built a monument honoring Gold Star Mothers as his Eagle Scout project.

OUTGOING Department Membership Chair (and incoming Department Commander) Mike Bowen said he was thankful for four years of successful membership campaigns. A strategy of "engaging audiences in membership workshops resulted in enthusiasm" for member recruitment, he noted, and closed with this thought: "Success is not the key to happiness. Happiness is the key to success."

LAW AND Order Chair Charles Hill announced the top police, fire and EMT awards:

- Captain Bruce P. James of Wyoming County Sheriff's Department in Warsaw is the New York Corrections Officer of the Year. He is the jail captain, overseeing the day-to-day operation of the 80-inmate facility. He has been jail administrator for 20 of his 27 years with the department. He was cited for knowledge of safety, security, and medical and behavioral issues -- as well as computer and radio technology.

- Sgt. Ralph J. Bartlett of Warren County Sheriff's Office in Lake George is the Police Officer of the Year. Bartlett was cited for supervising a pursuit of a man with a handgun who had fired five rounds into a home. After a 25-minute chase, the gunman exited his vehicle and fired two rounds at Bartlett. Despite being knocked back as one round struck him in the abdomen, Bartlett returned fire and hit the shooter. Other officers also shot the gunman, killing him before he could do further harm. Bartlett was cited for "courage under fire" and "clear thinking even after he was wounded."

- Wilbur Bailey, fire chief of the St. Regis Falls Fire Department, is the New York Firefighter of the Year. In addition to completing Firefighter I & II training, he has taken HAZMAT training, is a certified EMT and is a CPR instructor. Bailey coordinates an an-Fall 2011

nual patriotic Fourth of July parade and event, drawing visitors from a 100-mile radius -- and raising funds for much-needed firefighting equipment and supplies. After the attacks on 9/11/01, he organized a group of firefighters to respond to New York City.

- James R. Greeley, a retired U.S. Army sergeant major from Hemlock, is the New York Emergency Medical Technician of the Year. He is a primary EMT with both the Hemlock Fire Department and Livonia Volunteer Ambulance Squad. Early on, he served as a firefighter and fire police captain before taking emergency operations and EMT training. Elected chief for 2009-2010, he was instrumental in promoting greater mutual aid cooperation among three fire departments.

- The Utica Police Department has been awarded the New York American Legion Service Award for "150 years of outstanding public service." The Utica PD, headed by Chief Mark Williams, also was cited for its work resulting in a reduction in violent crime. Last year Utica police responded to over 55,000 calls, made 6,247 arrests, responded to 3,530 motor vehicle accidents, and wrote 8,570 traffic summonses and 17,780 parking tickets. The department set forth a plan to reduce violent crime in the City of Utica. The hard work of the officers paid off. The homicide rate dropped to the lowest it has been since 2001. Aggravated assaults (involving weapons) dropped significantly, the lowest since 2004. Robberies also decreased, the lowest since 2005.

A JUNIOR shooting team from Middletown Post 151 is the New York State champion in the National American Legion Sporter Team Competition, Junior Shooting Sports Chair Lawrence L. Behling announced.

Team member Brenda Hernandez also took first place honors in the Individual Sporter Match. Other team members are Adam Ballard, Samantha Migliori and Derek Savino.

MORE AWARDS, GUEST SPEAKERS HIGHLIGHT DAY 2

Department Historian Buzz Blevins helped kick off the second day of the convention by announcing winners of the annual History Book contest.

New Hartford Post 1376 took first place with a book prepared by Larry Winfield. Don Nagle of Sackett-Merrill Post 575 took second place.

Frank Carletta of Oneida County Legion grabbed first place honors in the county category. Second place went to Susanne Quirk of Erie County.

In the district category, 7th District took the honors with Buzz Blevins' own submission.

AFTER ANNOUNCING that some 1,050 youth completed Boys State at SUNY Morrisville earlier in the month, with 61 counties sending delegates, Chair John Murphy described the young men as "the best of the best." He also offered his kudos and gratitude to some 90 support staff that make the exercise in citizenship and leadership possible.

Murphy then introduced this year's Boys State governor -- Scott Ferron of Malta, who is entering his senior year at Balston Spa High School. Calling Boys State an "amazing world," Ferron was first elected "mayor" of his group and then "county executive" before becoming one of two candidates vying for "state governor."

He said he quickly learned that "mental attitude" can make the difference. Ferron, who was sponsored by Balston Spa Post 234, reported that in a span of two hours, the Boys State legislative body passed two bills -- to extend the certification process for teachers and to require drug testing for welfare recipients.

OUTGOING New York Legion Auxiliary President Nancy Kurk was treated to a standing ovation as she entered the convention to present Commander Troiola with a $5,000 check for the veterans rehab program and to discuss her passion to help homeless vets. She announced the opening of a second house for homeless women veterans.

ORATORICAL Chair Anthony Paternostro introduced this year's New York oratorical champion, Steven J. Velardo Jr., who immediately regaled the convention with the opening of his winning speech, "For Posterity." The home-schooled youth from the Dutchess County community of Hopewell Junction noted that preparing for the contest made him realize the importance of exercising the right to vote in preserving America's liberties. As Department champion, Velardo receives a $6,000 scholarship. He was sponsored by Manny Becon Post 1750. Velardo is active in the Civil Air Patrol, recently completing a term as cadet commander and representative to the Cadet Advisory Council; the Danbury Police Explorers; the 4H, and Venture Crew Shooting Sports Club.

HOWARD GARRITY, veterans business development officer with the Small Business Administration office in Elmira, reported that the pilot program begun in 2007 to help veterans start or expand a business has resulted in guaranteeing some $633 million in loans to nearly 8,000 veterans. He also pointed to entrepreneurial boot camps, coordinated with Syracuse University and other colleges, that help veterans, women vets and family care-givers of disabled veterans to launch a business career. He urged posts to get the word out to returning veterans.

WITH A mission of fostering a strong image of the Legion, Department Public Relations Chair Kenneth Governor reported on a series of seminars at the Mid-Winter Conference aimed at providing tools for good PR and journalism. He then presented the Department PR Award to Bob Stronach of Utica Post 229, citing his newsletter and website work at the post level as well as his contribution to the Department's PR program.

DENNIS OLIVER of Charles Wescott Post 173 in Bath is the Service Officer of the Year, Service Officer Chair R. Michael Suter announced.

thanked the Department of New York for its training, calling it "the best in the nation." The Air Force vet also said it was very humbling to be honored with an award that his mentors have received.

EMPLOYMENT Awards Chair Sandra Junker announced the top veterans employment reps and the double award-winning Employer of the Year.

Candela Systems Corporation, a small employer in Somers, NY, received two Employer of the Year awards -- one for employing veterans and the other for employing older workers. The lighting technology and energy efficiency company has 29 employees, Junker said, including five veterans and three workers over the age of 55. Candela's James

- Category II (100-299 members): Munnsville Post 54, Munnsville; 6th District.
- Category III (300-499 members): Colon-Couch Post 821, Clayton; 5th District.
- Category IV (500+ members): West Seneca Post 735, West Seneca; 8th District.

TWO BOWLERS scored perfect 300 games in the New York Legion Bowling Tournament, Bowling Chair Richard L. Milton reported. They were Rick Dale of Post 406 in Boonville and Mike White of Post 282 in Lima.

The April-May weekend tournament, hosted by Tioga Post 401 in Owego, saw 75 teams, 189 doubles, 372 singles and 359 six-game combos, Milton noted. Prize money paid out, in addition to trophies, totaled $6,116.

Doubles winners: Chili Post 1830, with Chuck Car-dot and Leanne Burns.

Singles winner: Robert Stone Jr., Post 87, Danville.

Combo winner: Jon Bohn,

Post 1244, Greenlawn.

BEFORE GOING into recess, the convention saw some 20 Legionnaires line up to make check presentations, mostly to Fang Wong's campaign fund as the 2011-2012 national commander, including $3,000 from Wong's home post, Kimlau Chinese Memorial Post 1291 in New York City.

A $5,000 donation for the American Legion Legacy Scholarship Fund was presented by Pat Connelly on behalf of the Legion Riders at J. E. Zaloga Post 1520 in Albany.

NEW COMMANDER MAKES TRIUMPHAL ENTRANCE ON DAY 3

Newly elected Department Commander W. Michael Bowen made a triumphal entrance on the final day of the convention -- after a rousing demonstration by banner-toting supporters, who wound their way around the convention floor behind a band of blaring bagpipes and cadenced drums. He made his way up to the stage with his family in tow and declared: "I am proud to serve this great organization, our God, and our country!"

He introduced some people sitting in the front row -- veterans who served with him on active duty -- and noted: "It can't get any better when veterans are your best friends."

Bowen also introduced a 93-year-old World War II veteran, Stanley E. Rychlicki from Livingston County, who had served in the Civilian Conservation Corps with his dad. Rychlicki was inducted into the NY State Senate Veterans Hall of Fame last year.

His focus for the year will be the entire American Legion family, Bowen said, noting: "Together we can make a difference -- and we will make a difference!"

THE DAY BEGAN with Sons of the American Legion officers marching down the aisle and up onto the stage. The New York Detachment added 14 new squadrons and revitalized three counties, reported Outgoing Commander John Rogers. "Regarding Fall 2011 Legion College," he added, "I am happy to report that we had seven graduates this year." He presented $1,000 for the Legacy Scholarship Fund, and a $5,000 check for Fang Wong's fund as 2011-12 national commander (bringing the Detachment's total fund contribution for the year to $35,000). Rogers introduced a special guest, SAL National Commander David Dew, who reported that Sons of the Legion now number in excess of 342,000 members who have contributed over $394,000 for child welfare.

Then the 2011-2012 NY Detachment commander was introduced -- Greg "Doc" Gibbs.

PATRICK ROURK, the outgoing president of the New York American Legion Press Association, presented the Press Association PR Person of the Year Award to a surprised Robert Morrill, who chairs the National Public Relations Commission and who helped NYALPA through the process of updating its bylaws and constitution this year.

SCHOLARSHIP Chair John E. Murphy reported that 223 posts in the state awarded 1,106 scholarships totaling $348,608. Then he announced several scholarships that were awarded at the convention:

- $1,000 Dr. Hanna Vuolo Scholarship (for a descendant of a veteran) went to Danielle Cuddebach of Deruyter.

- $1,000 NY American Legion Press Association Scholarship (for delegate at Boys or Girls State, or descendant of veteran) went to Emily Peters of PARADE competition chairman Arthur Maggy announced the top marching units from the convention parade that traversed downtown Binghamton the previous evening.

Categories and first place winners are:

1. Post Color Guard: Greece Post 468
2. County Color Guard: Seneca County.
3. District Color Guard: 5th District
4. SAL Color Guard: SAL 1397
5. Auxiliary Unit Color Guard: Unit 1151

8. Legion Family Color Guard: 6th Dist. Post 465
9. Senior Band: Post 264
10. High School or Junior Band: Sandy Creek
11. Pipe & Fife Band: Towpath

AFTER announcements and routine business were taken care of, the delegates went into election mode, with nominations and voting on the 2011-2012 department leadership bringing the convention to a close -- but not before Bowen donned the white hat of department commander.
